ABOUT THE AUTHOR

KEN XIAO is an English teacher who has walked in your shoes. He spoke no English when he came to the United States at the age of 17. After three years from speaking no English to speaking broken English, Ken looked for the key to English fluency and found the secret to success. Using the secret, Ken quickly learned to speak English like a native speaker in six months. Using the secret, Ken also learned to speak two other languages like a native in six months.

Ken has been an interpreter with the United States Department of Defense. He holds a bachelor's degree in Information Technology and a master's degree in Space Studies.

Ken is now an English teacher, school principal, and author. Ken's book, Talk English, which he detailed how he turned his broken English into native English, the secret to success, and step-by-step instructions for anyone to do the same, has been published in four languages and is the #1 bestselling book in English fluency on Amazon.

Learning to speak English like a native seemed impossible to me, but I did it. So can you!

Ken Xiao

Chapter 1: You Can Speak Like A Native. Yes, You Can!

You want to learn to speak English, but you think it seems too big of a job to do, you think seems too much to learn, and you think it takes too long to learn.

In addition, you already know some English, yet you don't speak English well. You've tried many methods and you still make grammar mistakes, you still can't speak English fluently, and you still can't pronounce English words correctly. You can read English, but you feel too nervous or too shy to speak English.

In addition to that, if you already know how to speak English and you think you're speaking it right, trust me, you are speaking it wrong. I have been in your shoes before, and I know you are speaking it wrong.

The good news is, these are all normal. You haven't used an effective method to learn to speak English yet.

My name is Ken Xiao. I didn't speak English when I came to the United States as a young man, but now listen to my English. You are listening to my voice. Not only can I speak English like a native, I did that in six months. In this course, I will teach you how to speak English like a native speaker.

If you have been learning English in classrooms, ask yourself this, “why don't I speak English like a native?”

That's because classrooms are designed for you to learn to read and write, not to speak.

In this course, I'll show you step-by-step instructions on how to completely get rid of your accent and speak English like a native speaker in six months.

Now let's hear a message from a middle school dropout.

In a poor farming village, a child was born. In his childhood life, he was hungry. So hungry that even after over 30 years, he still remembers the hunger he'd been through in vivid details. There was no running water, so he had to carry water home using two buckets from a well that was half of a kilometer away. He was seven years old. The buckets of water were so heavy that he felt like two mountains on him. At age seven, he started to work in the fields to plant, cultivate, and harvest crops. At age seven, he started to collect firewood for cooking. At age seven, he started to cook for the entire family using an open fire. There was no electric stove, and he was lucky if he got electricity for lighting once a week. He started elementary school at age eight and dropped out of middle school at age 13.

At age 17, he immigrated to the United States of America, and he spoke no English. He started to learn English in ESL classes, and three years later, he was able to speak broken English. Then he looked for the key to English fluency and found the secret. He followed the secret for six months and began to speak English like a native.

He graduated high school, graduated college, and graduated graduate school. He has been an interpreter with the United States Department of Defense.

Here is the best part: This country boy, this middle school dropout, started at 20, for six months, who successfully spoke English like a native, has no special talent! He's just an average boy you and I would see in the countryside. He's just an average man you and I would meet on the streets. All he did was following the secret, a secret that is now in this book.

This middle school dropout has been talking right in front of you. This middle school dropout is me.

Now tell yourself this: I can speak English like a native! Yes, I can!

Chapter 2: You Already Know 68%, Yes, You Do!

If you're completely new to the English language, then congratulations, you already know 68% of the English language.

Now let me say that again.

If you're completely new to the English language, then congratulations, you already know 68% of the English language.

Hard to believe? It is true.

How many English words do you need to know in order to understand 68% of English?

The answer is zero.

Yes! You don't need to understand a single word of English to understand 68% of English.

And here is why:

Sixty-eight percent of communication is through body language, not through words.

Let's look at this picture.

They said nothing, yet they told you this: We are a couple. This is our romantic moment. Do not disturb.

Now look at this picture.

He said nothing, but he told you this: stay away from me.

Let's take a look at these five examples:

1. Normal: I told you the birds are going to eat the fish.
2. Angry: I told you the birds are going to eat the fish.
3. Question: I told you the birds are going to eat the fish?
4. Sad: I told you the birds are going to eat the fish.
5. Happy: Ha, ha, ha, ha, I told you the birds are going to eat the fish!

Now you can understand the meaning from the tone of the voice far greater than from the meaning of the words. You can understand the meaning from the motion of the body way better than from the meaning of the words.

Let's take a look at some examples:

1. Smiling at you – usually means they're friendly.
2. Running away from you – usually means they're avoiding communication.
3. Waving at you – they want to say hello or say good-bye to you.

It's the same with expressing yourself. You don't need to know a single word of English to express 68% of what you're trying to say. You can do that by simply using your body language.

Let's hear a story.

A friend of mine went to China as an exchange student. She spoke English and a little bit of Mandarin. Her roommate who was from Korea spoke only Korean.

The first day they met, they tried to communicate. They used their body language. Soon they grabbed a pen and a paper and started drawing.

My friend told me they understood each other by 90%.

Without a pen and a paper, you can expect to understand 68% of any language.

So tell yourself this: Yes! I do understand 68% of English. Yes, I do!

The will to win, the desire to succeed, the urge to reach your full potential... these are the keys that will unlock the door to personal excellence.

Confucius

Chapter 3: Native In 5 Lessons, Easily

The English language is a language that is very open to other languages. As a result, its vocabulary is ever increasing. Today, the English vocabulary has over half of a million words. Half of a million equals 500,000.

Can you learn 500,000 words? In five lessons?

The good news is, you don't need to learn 500,000 words to understand spoken English. Most of the English words are not spoken in everyday conversation.

I have good news for you: Out of the 500,000 words, 100 words are used in 50% of daily conversation.

That means if you would just learn these 100 words, you'd be able to carry on 50% of daily conversation.

I have more good news for you: Out of the 500,000 words, only 300 words are used in 65% of daily conversation.

And I have even more good news for you: Out of the 500,000 words, only 500 words are used in 80% of daily conversation.

In this lesson, I will teach these 500 words to help you speak 80% of daily English like a native speaker.

Chapter 4: Three Elements To Speaking Like a Native

There are three things I'd like to share with you to help you speak English like a native speaker.

1. Pronunciation (how words sound)
2. Intonation (the rise and fall or the up and down of the voice)
3. Liaison (word connections)

1. Pronunciation:

Get your pronunciation right, practice many times.

How many times should you practice? Let's hear what Bruce Lee said.

“I fear not the man who has practiced 10,000 kicks once, but I fear the man who has practiced one kick 10,000 times.”

How many times should you practice? Ten thousand?

I myself practiced hundreds of times in six months. You should practice as many times as you need until your pronunciation is correct. Then get that into your subconscious mind by practicing more.

In the audio version of this book, you'll hear the pronunciation speed begins slowly and the speed will gradually pick up as you continue on.

In the audio version of this book, you may hear the pronunciation of “sommmyy” instead of “some.” You may also hear “strongggggga” instead of “strong.” That is very normal in natural speaking. However, the ending sound is very light. It's different than adding an extra syllable. It's just a slight ending sound.

Some words like semicolon, researcher, and either can be pronounced in two different ways. They can be pronounced in one way or the other. If you hear both versions of them in the audio, relax! I'm showing you both ways to pronounce them. You can choose the one you like or use both of them.

Some ending sounds such as the t and d sounds may be lost in natural speaking. That is very normal. Instead of hearing an intentional “sunriZe” with the /z/ sound, you may hear “sunriSe” with the /s/ sound.

Sometimes, you may hear /THat/ instead of /THat/.” That is normal, too. When speaking with speed, it sounds more natural to say /THat/ than an intentional /THat/.

Sometimes, you may hear “an” instead of “and.” That is normal, too. When speaking with speed, it sounds more natural to say “an” than to say “anD.”

Follow the instructions in the book, anD you'll get them right!

2. Intonation:

When speaking English, we change our voice regularly. We raise the pitch of our voice on some words and lower on other words.

Let's look at these two sentences.

1. It's Emily's book.
2. It's Emily's book.

In sentence 1, the underlined word is Emily. “Emily” is the most important word in this sentence. It tells your listeners that this is about who the book belongs to. It belongs to Emily. Therefore, the word “Emily” is stressed.

Try to say the first sentence stressing on the word “Emily.” Raise the pitch of your voice on the word “Emily” to make it more important.

Now try to say sentence 2. The underlined word in sentence 2 is “book.” In this sentence, “Emily” is not the most important word. “Book” is. It tells your listeners this is about Emily's what! It's about Emily's book. Therefore, the word “book” is stressed.

This is intonation. What you stress on is what you want your listeners to get the meaning from.

Some words pronounce differently in different situations. Let's take a look at the following words. Raise the pitch of your voice on the underlined portion of the words.

- Those apple trees produce 2000 pounds of produce each year.

Produce, Produce

- The increase of the air in the balloons increases the pressure of the balloons.

Increase, Increases

- The children present their father a birthday present.

Present, Present

- Perfect your intonation to make your English perfect.

Perfect, Perfect.

Although the words are the same, we change the intonation to change the meaning of the words.

3. Liaison:

In sentences, words are not pronounced one by one. They're pronounced with connections. Let's look at the following words.

Best time

Just talk

Top performance

Let's go one step deeper. In the following words, the underlined letters can perfectly connect to the first letter of the next word.

Like it
Hold on
Put up
Strong enough

As they connect, they form a new sound.

Following are sentences with vowels, a, e, i, o, u, at the end of a word and immediately at the beginning in the next word.

I also invited the other team.
L unzipped the airbag.
Go on to Avenue A.

When we say a, e, i, we naturally add a “y” sound to connect to the next word. When we say o or u, we naturally add a “w” sound to connect to the next word.

Let's look at more.

What you need is practice.
Act your part.
I got you.

Did you see that?
Would you like one?
How did yesterday go?

That sounds yummy.
Six years.
Delicious yams
Seize your sword.
Realize your potential.
Murphy's yams.

Usual way.

Use these three and your English will become so natural just like a native speaker.

An ounce of practice is worth more than tons of preaching.
Mahatma Gandhi

Chapter 5: The One-Word Secret to Success

How do we speak English like a native?

Practice!

This is the one-word secret to success.

Why do I call it a secret? Actually, it isn't a secret at all. It appears again and again in books and on the internet, but very few people have learned it or understood it, and it virtually remains a secret.

Let's take a look at what some great people have said.

Mahatma Gandhi said this: “An ounce of practice is worth more than tons of preaching.”

Zig Ziglar said this: “Repetition is the mother of learning and the father of action which makes it the architect of accomplishment.”

John F. Kennedy said this: “Every accomplishment starts with the decision to try.”

And again, Bruce Lee said this: “I fear not the man who has practiced 10,000 kicks once, but I fear the man who has practiced one kick 10,000 times.”

If we want to be good at something, we must practice it.

How do we practice it?

Repeat what you hear again and again.

This is what sets you apart from other learners. How many times do you repeat after your teacher in classes? Two times? Three times?

That's far from enough!

In English, we say “practice makes perfect.” You need to repeat again and again and again and again until you speak like a native and then repeat again and again and again and again.

Here is more:

“Routine has nothing to do with repetition. To become really good at anything, you have to practice and repeat, practice and repeat.”

Paulo Coelho

“To sum it all up, it's about repetition.”

David Jackson

“Success requires the repetition of right actions.”

Jeffrey Benjamin

“Success is the sum of small efforts repeated day in day out.”

Robert Collier

Let me share with you a story.

In the year of 2000, I found a strong reason to kick myself out of bed to learn how to ballroom dance. I was completely new to dance and knew nothing about it. I started taking dance classes at Stepping Out Studios in New York City.

I practiced what I'd learned before class, I practiced what I'd learned after class, and I practiced what I'd learned during class. I practiced at home, at the studio, at subway stations, and on subway trains.

Just like the words from the great people I have quoted, I practiced, again and again, every day, and whenever I had a moment. I practiced when I had an hour, 20 minutes, five minutes, and 60 seconds.

Six months later, I danced better than most students there who had been dancing for 10 years. During a student performance, the owner of the studio introduced me as “one of our BEST students!”

Six more months later, I competed in International Rhumba and Cha-Cha and won the gold medal.

It's the same in learning to speak English. Practice your English whenever you have a moment. Practice what you've learned again and again. Practice every day. Practice when you have an hour, 20 minutes, five minutes, 60 seconds.

Do you have a busy schedule? Look at this:

Zig Ziglar, a successful motivational speaker, said this, “if you'd just listen to something in your car wherever you go, you'd learn more than you would have at a university.”

Do you take the public transportation? That's a great opportunity! Do you drive? That's a great opportunity! Do you walk? Do you workout? Do you shop? Do you cook? These are all excellent opportunities! Do you work? Does your work give you the opportunity to practice?

Grab every opportunity and practice your English. Do that for six months and you'll be amazed at how well you speak English.

Listen and repeat the words over and over again. Listen and repeat sentences and phrases over and over again. Listen and repeat the whole lesson over and over again. Do that by following the step-by-step instructions in this book.

Now let me use a quote from Earl Nightingale about success. “If you've decided on what you want and you work steadily toward what you want, you're almost certain you'll achieve it. There is no way it cannot.”

Can you lift 300 pounds? Probably not. It's too heavy for most of us. Can you lift three pounds? Yes, you can. Let's start small by lifting three pounds today, four pounds tomorrow, and keep adding. By doing this, your muscles will grow bigger each day and your muscles will continue to build little-by-little, day-by-day. Before you know it, you've already built enough muscles to effortlessly lift 300 pounds!

It's the same for building your fluency. Start small and keep building little-by-little, day-by-day. Before you know it, you've already built enough fluency to effortlessly speak English so fluently that seemed impossible before.

Continue practicing your English day-by-day, and you'll be amazed in just weeks how much fluency you've built. You'll be amazed when you notice that you are speaking English like a native!

Action is the foundational key to all success.

Do you know you have a sleeping giant inside you?

Now let me say that again. Do you know you have a sleeping giant inside you?

It is true, and the majority of people don't know.

If you accept that fact that you are a cat, you'll do the things a cat will do.

If you accept that fact that you're a nine-to-five worker, you'll do the work a nine-to-five worker will do.

However, if you accept that fact that you are a tiger, you will do the things a tiger will do.

If you accept that fact that you can speak English like a native, you will speak English like a native.

Take a look at me. I, Ken Xiao, the author of this book, a country boy and a middle dropout, I believe I can speak English like a native, and I speak English like a native.

Are you better than a country boy? Are you better than a middle school dropout?

Even if you're not better than a country boy, even if you're not better than a middle school dropout, but if you believe you can speak English like a native, take actions, and you will speak English like a native.

Let's wake up that sleeping giant in you. Follow my step-by-step instructions to get your results. Listen to the audio version of the lessons and do the following.

Step 1: Listen and Repeat At the Same Time

Listen to the audio of a chapter and repeat what you hear immediately. Do not wait until the end. Repeat immediately. It's OK to miss something the first few times. Just keep going without stopping.

Step 2: Finish Repeating the Whole Chapter

Listen to and repeat the chapter from the beginning to the end.

Step 3: Record Your Voice

Record your voice repeating the chapter. This is important. Do not skip it.

Find a recorder such as your computer, a cell phone or an MP3 recorder. Put on a pair of headphones and record your voice repeating the chapter from the beginning to the end.

Save the file and move on to Step 4.

Step 4: Finish Repeating the Chapter One More Time

Listen and repeat the chapter again from the beginning to the end.

Step 5: Immediately Go Back and Repeat the Words You Can't Say For As Many Times As You Need

Repeat the chapter again. This time, if there are words you can't say correctly, immediately stop and go back to them. Listen again and repeat. Try once, twice, three times, or more. Try as many times as you need until you can say all words correctly.

Step 6: Finish Repeating the Chapter Until You Become Fluent

Now that you have finished step five, and you can say every word correctly. Now repeat the whole chapter from the beginning to the end. Repeat for as many times as you need until you can say each sentence naturally and fluently.

Step 7: Record Your Voice

Now that you have finished step six, and you can say every word correctly and every sentence naturally and fluently. Now record your voice again. Record your voice repeating the same chapter. Save your file.

Find the first recording and listen to it. Then find the second recording and listen to it.

Did you speak better in the second recording than in the first recording?

Yes? Let's take Step 8.

No? Let's take Step 8.

Step 8: Move On To the Next Chapter

Listen to the audio of the next chapter and take steps 1 – 7.

After you've finished all chapters, go back to the first chapter and start over again until you speak this lesson like a native. After that, get that into your subconscious mind by practicing some more.

Look at the book the first few times, but after you're familiar with the text, put the book away. Just concentrate on the audio!

Now get them, tiger!

Yes! We did it!

Let us celebrate! Gain some weight if you want.

After we celebrate, we will go back! We will go back to the very beginning and start over again.

Yes, start over again! Remember, you will speak like a native! Keep practicing!

My name is Ken Xiao. I am the author of this book, and the Audible version of this book is my own voice. I am a country boy. I didn't speak English when I came to the United States at the age of 17. If I can speak like a native, you can speak like a native, too. Go back to the first chapter and keep practicing. To learn full English pronunciation, get my book titled English Pronunciation Fun & Easy.
